Notable Turf Events of the Past Week.

CALIFORNIA HORSES LEADING

a Great Series of Record ing-Several Phenomenal Per-formances-The Diamond-Oar and Shell.

The past week has been a field day for record smashing among the run-ners, and California has led the van. ners, and California has led the van.
The latest sensation is Racine's great mile in 1:39\frac{1}{2} at Chicago. For the past thirteen years Ten Broeck's mile in 1:39\frac{1}{2} has stood as the high-water mark for that distance. It was made on a specially prepared track against time, and with a light weight. Maori last year ran the distance at Chicago in 1:89 4-5 in a race, which was the closest to Ten Broeck's famous time ever made, until Paio Alto's pride, Racine, galloped away from her field in 1:39.
Evon then the great Californian was not urged, and could easily have clipped off a full second had "Mexican Joe," his rider, pushed him. Narvice, by the way, has been doing some excellent work lately at Chicago. Racine was overlooked by the handicapper at Chicago, and is in all of his events at a light impost, so that the Undine stables cago, and is in all of his events at a light impost, so that the Undine stables, which have leased his running qualities, will reap a rich reward in stake mouey.

Firenzi's mile and a half in 2:33 was also a notable performance. Firenzi, while Kentucky bred, is by adoption a California snimal. So also is mighty Salvator. But while Firenzi has grazed upon the juicy grasses of the Rancho del Paso, Salvator has never seen the Golden West. He was bought by J. B. Haggin as a yearling in Kentucky, and has been kept in his eastern stable ever since. Salvator, however, will be added to the Rancho del Paso steeds, and will bring greater honors to the fame of California as the breeder of racehorses. A colt by Salvator out of Firenzi would cost some intending purchaser more money than ever a horse brought in the world.

Almost daily the three-quarter of a mile record is being clipped. For years the record for this distance was 1:18. El Rio Rey first brought it down to 1:11 last year at Westchester, to be equaled a few days later by Tipstaff. This year Fides opened the game by reducing it to 1:10 1-5. Then Geraldine and Bolero ran it in 1:10, and the other day Strathmeath ran it in 1:09 2-5, with Senator Rose's Fairy a good second.

Tueton also lowered the one and one-eighth mile record from 1:53 to 1:624.

OAR AND SHELL

O'Connor, the great American oars man, went to the Antipodes for the avowed purpose of bringing back the avowed purpose or bringing back the world's championship. He was to meet Stansbury, a new wonder in the rowing world, and his friends were confident he would win. Stansbury, however, proved himself a marvelous oarsman, and easily defeated O'Connor. The following is a description of the great race, as it was rowed on the Paramatta River, at Shoalhaven, New South Wales, Australia:

The race was rowed down stream from

and for the first 600 yards the men rowed on even terms. At this point there is a alight bend in the river and around it the American showed elightly in the lead, at which his friends sent up a joyful shout. The champion, however, put on more steam, and at the white beacon, a mile from home, had guaged his opponent and had him practically beaten.

The record for every distance from a mile to three miles was broken. The whole distance was covered in 19:58, the previous record of 20:44 having been made by Heach in his race against Trickett over the same course.

O'Comor's backers feel very sore over his defeat, as they placed great confidence in their man and fully expected to bring the championship back to America.

KENILWORTH.

THE EAST SIDE.

Impressive Religious Services — News Notes and Personals. Dr. Cox preached a very earnest and impressive sermon at the Asbury Methodist Church yesterday morning, taking for his text the first, second, rived on Saturday evening on a visit to his old friends and acquaintances.

Larson Dicks spent the Sabbath at Santa Monica, enjoying a day of vacation from his continuous labors.

James Hanley spent the Sabbath with his family at Long Beach.

The churches of the East Side were sparsely attended yesterday, so many of the good people having removed to the beach for the summer.

The "Deestrick Skule," at the Congregational Church on Tuesday evening, seems to be the only thing on the programme of entertainments on the East Side for this week.

At a regular meeting of Chosen Friends last Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing six months: C., Dr. Whitworth; V.C.W., H. Mowers; S., A. H. Gay; T., C. E. Berry; P., Mrs. Coolbaugh; M., Sarah Lang; W., Miss Winters; G., Mrs. Bosworth; S., Miss Ora Watkins.

THE FOURTH.

The Boy Soldiers Are Ready for the Parade.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the organization of the continental battalion of boys, which will parade, to the number of one hundred and fourteen, in the Fourth of July procession. The uniform will be that worn by Washington's soldiers, even the hair being dressed in the fashion of the time of the American Revolution. A number of ladies have been engaged for several days making the uniforms at No. 306 South Main street under the direction of Mrs. H. G. Shaw. The sewing-machine men throughout the city have each contributed the use of a machine free for the week. Many of the leading ladies of the city are bringing their boys in to have them enrolled in the continental battalion. The uniform is blue, faced with buff, white stockings for the cavalry. The guns are now on their way from San Francisco, Wells, Fargo & Co. carrying them free for the boys. On Saturday afternoon the work of organizing the companies began, two being formed. The third company will be organized this afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon at the Panorama A number of ladies have been engaged will be organized this afternoon. To-morrow afternoon at the Panorama amphitheater, 320 South Main street, the boys will have a cavalry drill un-der the instruction of a well-known United States Army officer. There are a few vacancies in the battalion for well-behaved boys between the ages of 12 and 15. The tallest boy of the age of 15 in the city is wanted for color-sergeant.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the agreeable liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufactur-

It was inaugurated last November by Maj. Jones and Mr. Lindley, and has been steadily pushed forward by them to the present time. The idea of the building was of a dual nature, to make a commodious and convenient market-house, easy of access to all parts of the city, and provide a permanent home for the Seventh Regiment of the National Guard. It was also designed to connect the old St. Vincent building with the new building by means of a bridge, so that the two buildings will be practically one. All this has been done, and today the two buildings comprise a ground measurement of 27,500 square feet. The new building covers 21,000 square feet, and the old building 6500 square feet. The building complete will cost about $50,000, and is supplied with all modern conveniences.

Sologo, and is supplied with all modern conveniences.

The plans of the new building were made by Robert B. Young, and the contractors are Mackey & Skninner. The building is entirely of iron, brick and stone, and in a general way, is one of the most substantial and conveniently arranged building in the city. It is partly a two-story and partly a three-story building, and the Seventh Regiment occupies the entire upper part. Here they have a magnificient drill hall, billiard-room, company rooms, regimental and brigade head-quarter apartments, and will have a home that cannot be excelled anywhere for comfort and convenience. They will have their formal opening in the future, the exercises tonight being those of the market-house proper. The drill hall has dimensions of 90x125 feet and has convenient galleries running around the sides for the convenience.

ing. Yesterday afternoon a boy reported at the Coroner's office that $800 had been found in the shanty of Lurssen, the man who hung himself Saturday. The boy did not know who found the money—in fact, could give no definite information whatever, and left, saying, however, he would return with particulars later, which he failed to do. One of Lurssen's friends says that he sold a house and lot some time ago for $800, after which he went to San Francisco, but whether he had the money or not when he returned he could not say. So far the coin has not materialized.

LOS ANGELES ARTISTS.

Talented Workers in Many

MISS DUVAL AND MISS PECK.

Ovation Tendered to Mr. and Mrs.
Borglum of Lee Angeles at Omaha—Their Trip to Europe.

Los Angeles has artists of all degrees of excellence, and some who are really meritorious. Every artist who can paint a good picture is a public benefactor in that he helps the ordinary man and woman to a revelation of Nature. The true artist not only sees Nature, but be feels all that she is; be is thrilled by her mysteries. Nature is to him an ever-shifting panoram fragrant with life, with color and warm with a living soul. The artist must be a poet as well as painter or his picture will lack feeling and expression. Nature makes poets of every one who loves her, though their poems may not always be set to thyme.

Los Angeles has as many studios in proportion to its inhabitants as, perhaps, any city in the country. Some of them you go up flight after flight of the and wife, Mrs. May Armstrong. R. Soot, J. E. Aull, Dr. Carbaps, any city in the country. Some of them you go up flight after flight of the and miring crowd. They were the guest of Matson & Bruhn, and filled the garden for a while with the melody of songs of Germany.

Among those noticed on the beach and esplanade were Col. E. E. Hewlind, C. J. Shepherd, George H. Miles, Mr. J. N. Lockwood, Miss Mrs. W. G. Kuhrts, Sr., John Rysson, Sr., James McInerney and family, J. P. Farrell and wife, Mrs. May Armstrong, R. Soot, J. E. Aull, Dr. Carbaps, any city in the country. Some of them you go up flight after flight of the and miring crowd. They were the guest of warshing and wife of the place today, and affamily.

Miss Duvall has one of these sky syries in the Bryson-Bonebrake block and on her wails are some beautiful paintings. In still life, there is a cluster of daming Tokay and another.

The music was finer than usual, and the band was duly appreciated.

Quite a number of Turners visited the place today, and after hathing, pertormed on the trapeze, rings and bars in front of the North Beach Paylinon to the grate for the place today, and after hathing, pertormed on the sea.

Miss Duvall has one of these sky syries in the Bryson-Bonebrake block, and on her walls are some beautiful paintings. In still life, there is a cluster of flaming Tokay, and another of the white muscat grapes, which is especially noticeable. Plump and rich and juicy hang the tempting bunches side by side upon the canvas, warm in the ripening sunshine, perfect in color and texture and marvelously transparent.

Another pretty picture is the front of the Santa Barbara Mission, with its gray and heary old walls and the solitary padre standing before them. In the distance are the purple mountains of the Santa Ynez, and over all the deep blue of California skies.

Another ware dearming platner by blue of California skies.

Another very charming picture by the same artist is a sunset scene, where the shadows have begun to fall amid the grasses. The lone pile of farm buildings are in shadow, but warm upon the chimneys of the old house fall the last rays of sunset light, touching them with splendor. The picture suggests to us the silence of the hour, and we feel its dreamy hush and stillness.

and we feel its dreamy nush and stinness.

Brilliant colors in landscapes it is siways somewhat dangerous to attempt, unless guided by the subtle instinct of the true colorist. But Miss Peck in her "Autumn," which hangs in the art parlors of Sanborn & Vail, has been quite successful in her interpretation of the brightness of autumn foliage, as well as in the limpid softness of the stream and the warm Indian summer lights upon its banks, and the slightly-clouded sky, all of which are well rendered.

Are well rendered.

NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Borglum, the well-known artists who recently left Los Angales for their proposed European trip, have been receiving a most enthusiastic ovation at Omaha, where their pictures were placed on exhibition at the Lininger Art Gallery. All the papers of the city are unstinted in their praise of the works of these artists, of whom Los Angeles may feel proud.

As published a few days since in The Trans a citizen of Omaha—a wealthy patron of art — sends the artists abroad, and pays their expenses, leaving them free to select whatever they may choose for their studies. Of Mr. Borglum an Omaha paper says:

Mr. Borglum is an artist who thinks and feels for himself, and who will be guided.

Borglum an Omaha paper says:

Mr. Borglum is an artist who thinks and feels for himself, and who will be guided by that inner voice. Europe, which has spoiled so many American artists, will not spoil him. He will not return to this country to paint French peasant girls and Swiss fakes, He stands pleaged not to do it. He realizes that the natural beauties and the people of America are waiting for artistic expression, and he honestly means to do what he can toward helping them to that expression. He will gather the strength that only Europe can help him to, but he will not contract the weaknesses which are epidemic among the artists abroad.

In short, Mr. Borglum has originality enough, and independence enough to be trusted to think his own thoughts and paint his own pictures. He will not become an affected mitistor.

his own pictures. He will not become an affected imitator.

A few years hence, when he returns to this city, Mr. Lininger will have reason to congratulate himself upon the perspication which led him to see in this young man the talent, which rightly directly, will certainly bring him extraordinary success.

Another Omaha journal pays Mrs. Borglum the following handsome compliment:

pliment:

Mrs. Borglum's work is in still life and her studies of California grapes excel anything in that line that has been shown in Omaha. Ream of Chicago, whose work in fruit has hitherto been acknowledged to be the best of the kind in the country, cannot show anything that will compare with her bunch of "Flaming Tokaya," a very brilliant grape, peculiar to California. She also has a number of flower studies that are very beautiful.

Los Angeles will by no means lose sight of these talented artists, but will follow them amid the schools and the art atmosphere of the Old World and feel an honest pride in their success.

SANTA MONICA.

Immense Crowds on the Beach-Hotel Arrivals.

SANTA MONICA, June 29.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The weather was fine, the surf finer and the enjoyment of our many guests was up to the superlative degree. They came from every county and town in Southern California, and it was an amusing sight to see the look of sursouthern California, and it was an amusing sight to see the look of surprise on an Angeleño's face when he met an acquaintance from San Bernardino or other burgh, and the exclamation, "Hello! You here?" has become a frequent phrase on the beach. One elderly gentleman, who is well known in this part of the State, and has held several offices within the gift of the people, stated to your correspondent that his hands were very nearly shaken off by the numerous acquaintances he met from all over, and said it was as had as a political convention. The little tots were also out in force, and enjoyed their preregatives in fine style.

Many Angeleños enjoyed a drive down in the cars hired turnouts from our local liverymen and visited the caffon, which was thronged with a delighted crowd on pleasure bent.

The superior bathing was well patrouized, and the management of the various establishments were tired when eventide came, but happy when they made up their books. The hot baths at North Beach were fairly besigned all day, and if the management had five times as many tubs they would all have been occupied many Estimates of the amount involved range from $35,000,000 to $42,000,000 Briefly stated, the measure provides for graded pensions of $6 to month in certain cases, according to the degree of disability. Widows are to receive $8 a month where the death of the husband is not the result of casualty, and $12 a month where it proved the result of casualty. AGRICULTURAL CO-OPERATION.

Cooperation among agriculturists has been essayed many times in Europe during the past twenty years, and with varying success. Of late, an agricultural cooperative movement in France has achieved so much success as to attract general attention

A great number of what are term syndicats agricoles have been formed, which are rapidly developing into combinations of cooperative associations for the sale of their own products, as well as the resale of what they pur-chase. Chambers of Agriculture and trade unions are beginning to use their power politically for the and advancement of the inprotection : terests of their members. The most complete account of the origin, constitution, object, and operation of these associations yet published in the English language has recently been issued by the American Department of Agriculture. There are said to be now three hundred and seventy of these associations in France, with a mem bership of about three hundred and eighty was to the value of over a hundred and fifty million francs. The cost of membership is very small - usually only two or three francs a year, and only one franc in some cases. stated that savings of prices of fertilizers and other farm necessaries to members have amounted, in some cases, to as much as thirty per cent. besides the securing of the best quality.

While the advantageous purchase of manures, seeds, implements and so forth was the first object of the agricultural syndicates, it is by no means the only object. The syndicates differ considerably in the direction of their efforts, in accordance with the needs of the prevailing branches of agriculture in the several departments and communes. The corn-growers, breeders and graziers, vine-growers, and the producers of beets for sugar, have vary ing interests to conserve and promote each of which is served by the associa tions devoted to it. The direct sale of farm produce to consumers has becom cates, and will probably before long be undertaken by them all. Agricultural education, conferences and dis-cussions, field experiments, trials of implements and machines, improve-ments in the breeding of live stock, the publication of agricultural inform ation, and the destruction of noxious nsects and vegetable parasites, are taken in hand by many of the societies Among the latest developments or proposals are assistance to members in the selection of manures for various crops and solls, seeds and implements the establishment of credit societies insurance societies and benefit clubs and relief in cases of damage to crop benefit as help in the work of member during illness, particularly valuable to during illness, particularly valuable to small cultivators, is not beyond the scope of operations in some instances. It is worthy of note that the president of the union of syndicates at a recent meeting strongly denounced the treaties of commerce, which will expire in 1892, and declaimed against their renewal. He also said that his union was strongly impressed with the union was strongly impressed with the need of fiscal reform in France.

There is a lesson in these associa tions of French agriculturists which the tillers of the soil in this country might with advantage heed. In some sections of the United States there has already been a strong move in this direction, but the American as sociations appear to be devoting themselves rather too exclusively to political matters. CLIMATIC CONTRASTS.

It is cold yet up in the Maine woods. Two Connecticut sportsmen who have just returned report snowdrifts two or three feet deep in sheltered places in the forests, and so cold that fishing in the lakes has been backward. In the Mississippi Valley it is hot. The prestemperature was 100 when the normal, it has gradually risen till the 26th and 27th to nearly 20° above. The maximum temperature for the eight days has exceeded the high ever known for an equal period in June. The cause for this abnormal condition has been the uniform high pressure in the gulf region, with almost stationary low-pressure area in the Northwest. In Southern Califor nia the weather has remained normal which means it has been good. No hot waves, no cold waves. Warm sunshine and cool breezes by day, and nights just right for refreshing ber have been the enviable lot of Southern Californians so far this season. Not a single death, not a single case of sickness from excessive heat has been reported in this section. What other country can boast of such climatic advantages?

COL MARKHAM AND HIS TRA

In its issue of Saturday the Fresno Republican published a long editorial on the Governorship question. After alluding to the waiting policy adopted by the Democrats this year-a policy dictated by their recognized weak ness-the Republican makes the following just and timely observations regarding Col. Markham and the nefarious attack which has been made upon him by the Governor's private ecretary:

The name of Col. Markham of Los Angeles was put forward for Governor. He is eminently qualified for the high office; the is an estimable citizen, distinguished in public capacity and nonored in private life. He has served his country on the field and in the national councils; in his adopted State he has been chosen to represent he interests in the halis of Congress, and has faithfully fulfilled other official trusts of honor and distinction to the complete satisfaction of the people and the Government. In him the Democratic leaders recognized a citizen of commanding worth, whose popularity was as acknowledged as his integrity was unquestioned. His record as a citizen and as a public officer was unassailable. There was no cloud upon his honor, no flaw in his reputation in any respect. Aristides was ostracised by his Athenian follow-citizens solely because he was know as "The Just." Where there is a way. It was impossible to assail Col. Markham as a citizen or as a The name of Col. The people of California have the true facts before them. There was not an atom of truth in the charge against Col. Markham. He openly challenged his maligners to proof of one word or utterance, spoken, written or printed, privately or in public, to which any such interpretation could be made. Not one dared to encounter him with response or reiteration of the charge. It fell, and has not the poor quality even of John Randolph's dead mackerel on the beach, which shone and stunk by moonlight. Col. Markham, as an ardent citizen of California shone and stunk by moonlight. Col. Markham, as an ardent citizen of California favors a complete and undivided great State of the California that is. He is faithful to her interests, wedded to her destiny, enamored of her surpassing beauties, earnest in his adoration of the goddess of pienty and of liberty, loyal to the Union, in whose cause he periled life upon the battlefield. His California is all California, north and south, east and west, from the sandy beach to the snowy summits. As Governor he would be impartial, faithful, mindful to all alike. It is for his party and the people to say. He will be content.

tensive Improvements Conterplated by the Santa Fe People in this City-Sunset Spe-clais - Notes.

Both of the railroads to the seacc did a big business yesterday. Every one in the city who could get out took the trains to Santa Monica, Redondo or Long Beach. The Southern Pacific ran several apecial trains to Santa Monica, which were crowded both the Padondo lines did as ways, and the Redondo lines did a good business all day. Yesterday was really the first good summer day. The really the first good summer day. The water was much warmer than it has been yet, and the bathers enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content. Had not the management of the Southern Pacific brought fourteen new sches down from San Francisco a few weeks ago they would not have been able to accommodate the people who visited Santa Monica and Long Beach yesterday.

SANTA FE IMPROVEMENTS The Santa Fé people are arranging to make extensive improvements in this city. They intend to move all of their machine shops for both the Southern California lines and also the Atlantic and Pacific to this city in the near future. They have room enough at the foot of Second street for their shops, and also for a big passenger and freight depot, in case they do not go into a union depot scheme with the citizens who are trying to get up a union depot company. President Manvel has been hanging back on this for some time, but he is getting anxious, and if some definite understanding is not reached soon he will break ground where the depot now stands for one of the finest depots in the State.

The company is also in need of a hespital building. It has been looking for a site for several years, and Mr. Manvel is anxious to see something shops, and also for a big passenger and

NOTES. The Southern Pacific Company has made quite a change in the make-up of passenger trains. RLEMENTARY GROGRAPHY. Compiled under the direction of the State Board of aducation. (Sacramente, Cal.: State Printing Office.)

A special feature of this book not found in other geographies is the ref-erences made in original notes to suitble supplementary reading.

Other features of interest are the determination of lengths and breadths by measurements made on the map, applying the scale, the reading of a map for the direction of large land slopes, and comparative elevations, as well as for location of places, kinds of climate, productions, probable occupa-tions, stc., locating on the map the different products of the county under consideration, topical reviews, etc. Especial attention has been called to the geography of California, twenty-six pages being given to this out of the one hundred and thirty-two contained in the book.

The natural features, famous resorts, mining, farming, manufacturing and commercial industries have all been dealt with in a most interesting manner. The maps are clear and not crowded, illustrations numerous and excellent, and letter press and binding

The author of this little volume is well known in Los Angeles, and the story she tells so pleasantly is the "old, old story" which has been repeated ever since the world was young, only she has put it in a different dress, and set it with new environments. "All the world loves the lover," and so the lovers in this book will find many to sympathize with them and follow them to love's happy ending.

The principal scenes of the story are laid in Los Angeles, which gives to the work local interest.

In this "New Pilgrimage". there is much to charm the lover of true poetry, for the author knows how to touch all the secret springs of the soul. He puts life into his pictures and makes them real. My beloved loved me. How shall I reveal it?
We were alone that morning i' the street,
She looked down at the ground and blushed and trembled. She looked down at the ground and blushed and trembled. She stopped me with her eyes when these did meet.

What would'st thou, sweet one? What would'st thou with sorrow, Thou the new morning star with me the night? What are those flowers thou holdset to thy bosom? What are the thoughts thou hidest from my sight?

My beloved laughed. She saw through my dissembling:
She held to me her hand that I might kiss, The inside of her hand! Twas like a petal Of her own roses, but more dear than this.

And so the tender little story goes on with all of love's tenderness, and we see the lovely, blushing maiden and our hearts thrill with the sweet "old, old story."

FREDERICK WARDE'S PLANS

n Hood," the Bostonians' Lat-Success-"A Long Lane" at the Grand Tomorrow Night -Coming Events.

In speaking of the New Madison Square Garden, just opened in New York, the Dramatic Mirror says: "Chicago's Auditorium must take a back seat—there is nothing in point of magnitude on this continent to comwith our new amphitheater. connected with the erection of a great hall of this description, the result is remarkably good. The effect is grand and imposing. The acoustics, how-ever, are defective."

Of the entertainment furnished by the world-renowned Strauss Orchestra, the same authority says: "Strauss and his players are wonderful when they play the Strauss dance music. The famous leader inspires his men with fervor by lifting himself on his toes with the rythmic swell of the movement, or snatching up his fiddle and setting them an example in the brilliant changes of the valse. But when they leave "The Blue Danube" and the leave "The Blue Danube" and the "Annen Polka" to wrestle with Gound and Preyer the contrast is unpleasantly disappointing. Strauss and his men are undoubtedly artists, but their art is restricted to one line, and that line is the melodic cascades, or the languorous strains of the Viennese terpsichorean specialties."

San Francisco Music and Drama ces that it has made arrange announces that it has made arrangements for the establishment of a permanent branch bureau in New York city under the management of a resident representative of high standing in the theatrical profession. The new departure of Music and Drama indicates that it is, as usual, thoroughly alive to the wants of the Pacific Coast, and intends to keep its readers posted up to date by special wire, so to speak, and without waiting for the news to come from the East by the ordinary channels.

Frederick Warde's plans for his next season, which begins at Troy. N. X., September 4th, include an elaborate next season, which begins at Troy, N.

Y., September 4th, include an elaborate representation of Shakespeare's Henry VIII, with Mrs. D. P. Bowers as "Queen Katharine," and himself as the much married monarch. Considerable money has been expended for costumes and scenery, and an effort will be made to have them correct. It is to be hoped that the effort will be as successful as it was in the case of Warde's Richard III. The standard repertory is to be increased by the addition of Othello and Macbeth, in both of which the assistance of Mrs.
Bowers will be of great value to the proper interpretation of the respective plays. Frederick Warde has built up a splendid reputation during his fifteen years' residence in this country, and has been triumphant in a struggle of more than ordinary severity during the earlier' portion of the past ten years, dating from the time when he became ambitious for recognition as a star. He was greeted with overflowing houses on his latest visit here, and the play-going public of Los Angeles will be glad to see him in the course of his next tour.

by Reginald De Koven, words by N. B. Smith, was given its first production by the Bostonians at the Chicago Operahouse recently, and scored a success. The audience was both fashionable and critical, the encores numerous and the popular success undoubted. Mr. Smith gets great credit for his part of the work. The versification is described by one connoisseur as "bright and rhythmical," which of course makes Mr. Smith feel happy.

The music of the opera according to the best accounts, is of the usual De Koven style, made familiar by his Don Quizole, and while it is catchy and pleasant to the ear, is said to be reminiscent of other works, one being invariably reminded of something heard before. Edwin Hoff and Marie Shone fill the two leading characters of "Robin Hood" and "Maid Marian," Barnabee is the "Sheriff of Nottingham," MacDonald is "Little John," Frothingham "Friar Puck," Eugene Cowles "Will Scarlett" and Jessie Bartlett-Davis makes .a captivating "Allan-a-Dale," in which role Flora Finlayson alternates. Mrs. Stone also gives herself a rest by alternating with Juliet Corden.

The New York Dramatic Mirror has The New York Dramatic Mirror has just begun its twenty-fourth volume. As the representative theatrical journal of America, the Mirror has won an enviable reputation. The discussion in its columns of matters having a bearing upon the interests of the stage is carried on from week to week in a liberal, intelligent and cultivated style, making the journal extremely interesting to the general reader as well as to the large body of professionals, in whose interest it is so worthily conducted.

It is reported that Charles E. Locke and J. Charles Davis have joined forces and will boom several theatrical forces and will boom several theatrical and operatic enterprises next season. Foremost among these will be the Emma Juch English Opera Company, with a repertoire of a dozen operas, a chorus of one hundred people and an orchestra of fifty. Another attraction will be De Wolf Hopper's Opera Bouffe Company with Casles in the Air as its piece de résistance. The third string to the managerial bow will be The Shatchen, which isto be sent on the road with M. B. Curtis as the star, Lewis Morrison having transferred all his rights in the piece.

A Long Lane; or, Pine Meadow, which is to be produced at the Grand Operahouse tomorrow evening, is by Sediey Brown, and is described as an idyllic domestic comedy-drama. It is promised that the production shall be in all respects a beautiful one, many novel features adding interest to the representation. One of the "features" is a flock of sheep introduced in the meadow scene, the chief scene of the play. The company is the same that acted the play with success at the Fourteenth-street Theater, New York, and comes here direct from the Bushstreet Theater, San Francisco.

A New York dramatic paper says that it looks as though every farce-comedy organization that goes on the road next season would have a pre-miere danscuse as one of the principal features. Managers are searching for them in every nook and corner.

Margeret Mather is to play the title role in Barbier's Jeanne d'Arc next winter, and intends to furnish the play in exact reproduction of the scenery, costumes, etc., used in the Porte St. Martin performance.

Indigo, an opera by Strauss, never produced on this coast, is to be brought out in San Francisco at the close of the run of The Gondoliers.

Louise Manired will again be leading lady at the Tivoll, San Francisco, after the departure of Telluia Evans.

Mary Anderson was born at Sacramento, July 28, 1859. This makes her two years the senior of her husband, Autonio de Nevarro, whose age is given at 29.

Joseph B. Grismer and Phœbe Davies have returned from New York to this coast. Mr. Grismer has brought over six new plays, so it is said, and will open at the Bush-street Theater on the 28th of July.

Mrs. Ponisi and Frank C. Bangs have been engaged for the next Jefferson-Florence tour.

Tom Karl of the Bostonians is going abroad to rest his throat. It was evident on his last visit here that his "cold" was a severe one, and it may be that his voice is giving out entirely.

Lewis Morrison will continue his production of Faust next season. In the construction of the "Brocken" scene he will introduce the novelty of a set scene built on the telescopic plan so as to fit a stage 20x20 or 60x60 feet or any intermediate size. His "Mephistopheles" will remain the same size as before.

A Chicago paper says that "Billie Deaves wears a necklace and a sash in the first-act of Olivets, and in the second act dispenses with the sash."

Maud Wilson deales the report that she has signed with Natural Gas for next season. Miss Wilson has made no arrangements whatever, as she contemplates a trip to Europe and two or three years' study abroad.

Miss Catherine Coggswell has engaged for next season with Frederick Warde, and will play "Desdemona."

Miss Coggswell was acting last season in the Lyceum Our Flat Company, and the pravious year with Mrs. Langtry; but this engagement will give her her first real opportunity to display her force and powers. She is regarded as one of the most beautiful women in the profession.

WATCH REPAIRING.

It does not follow because a man is a "natural genius," and can clean a watch, that he can make it keep time, or that it is safe to leave a good timepiece in his hands for repairs. More watches are injured by repairs (? than by use or accident. Very few excel in any department of life, yet it is a common thing to see the sign, "Fine watch repairing a specialty."

I have recently associated with me MR. DAVID CONNER, who I can recommend as a watchmaker with no superior on the southern coast and who is competent to repair complicated watches, such as repeaters, chronographs and split seconds. I may add that he comes with high recommendations from Joslin & Park, the leading jewelers of Denver, Colorado.

HOW WOMEN KEEP CHARMING.

The Newest Notions in Hand and Foot Wear-Pretty Fans for Pretty Girls-Lace and Neckwear.

[COPYRIGHT, 1990—FOR THE TIMES.]
The sprig of mountain laurel or the bunch of daisies is no longer thrust through the sash or worn in the bodice folds. It is pinned into the breast-pocket of the jacket, and has ousted the handkerchief from this position. Such being the case, the handkerchief may return, it is to be hoped, to its natural uses. At present it is obviously in-tended for ornament only. I saw some yesterday made of the most delicate shades of surah silk, and edged with the daintiest lace imaginable. To allow such treasures to fall into the clutches of the everyday laundress would be the ruin of them. There was one of white silk gauze embroidered with sprigs of ivy and blue berries. Another was of white silk embroidered in Japanese style, and button-holed in scallops at the edges. Others were in blue and red checked silk with red-spotted hems two inches wide. There were others of bright scarlet and rose-colored and turquoise-hued mull; these I confess to having found most startling. Less pretentious were those of lavender and mauve batiste, or the dark red hand-kerchiefs finished with drawn work, chain-stitch and embroidery. Decidedly an innovation was a white hand-kerchief edged with a narrow blue stripe, and having for its chief decoration a Watteau landscape, hand painted—to what is a world that handpaints its handkerchiefs coming? Instead of "see Paris and die" a little woman was remarking yesterday, "see a hand-painted apron and live to laugh at such absurdities." Sometimes I think that people who aspire to use paint brushes ought to be subjected to civil service examinations.

Cheek by jowl with the painted handkerchief was one of dead black mull, not black bordered nor with a black crest or monogram, but in solid color to go with some extreme faddist's mourning costume.

Dors Wheeler, whom we hope is not lost to art, theugh she has committed matrimony, keeps herself supplied with tiny handkerchiefs of the filmiest white cambric, which are powdered over with the most charming little flowers in natural colors, worked after the Associated Artists' designs. With her fresh gingham frocks for summer, she uses fine squares of Illac cambric on handkerchiefs in pale pink or mauve. These are embroidered in flax thread, sometimes in white and sometimes in colors. One rather eccentric young woman who will have millions when she marries contents herself with nothing less diaphanous for wear with her evening costumes than handkerchiefs of butter-colored mousseline de soie. For day use when choosing a spot for her monogram she doesn't favor either the middle of her mouchoir or its corner, but has a little lozenge of mull mull stitched on somewhere along the border and on this is worked the highly

The tenth girl shakes one out with a neat little flourish that is all piquancy; the other nine impress the sympathetic beholder with the notion they went by accident to a big brother's bureau drawer.

Fans and laces.

Some charming novelties in gloves from Paris have appeared. They have about them the air of the boulevard. about them the air of the boulevard. Some are mauve-colored, some rose, some pale green, faint yellow, suggestive blue. They are marvelously dainty and extremely unfit for the purpose to which the unthinking put them, to wit, street wear.

A pretty girl wore white suede gloves in the park yesterday with a white frock. "When did you get your appointment?" asked a cousin from Yale who is a great tease.

"What appointment?" returned the who is a great tease.

"What appointment?" returned the girl suspiciously, scenting a joke of some description.

"Why, haven't they been adopting Isabella Beecher Hooker's suggestion and fitting out the city with policewomen?"

May the scoffer prevail, for the wo-man who will wear white gloves should have answered "Yes," when the cen-sus enumerator queried, "Are you an idiot?"

At a little dance at the opening of a fine old country house the other evening. I noted as well as I was able for the heat that some of the dressiest girls present were wearing, with their white and gauzy costumes, black—mark me, black—kid gloves so long that they fairly came up on the shoulders. Isn't it funny how the glovemakers continue always to get in the same average quantity of material? Now that we are wearing long sleeves with demi-toilet, we cut down one set of gloves to one or two buttons only to pleae on the extra kid when we come to another set appropriated to full dress, that is, to have necks with no sleaves at all.

Miss Bertha Robinson, the tenuis, champion, tells me that the newest gloves for the country are also the best she has ever sees. The kid has a Russian finish which prevents it from cracking or sliffening after being wet, so that it can be caught in picnic thunder showers without damage for a whole season. Widely removed from thoughts from such homely utilities are the latost evening gloves; which are of pale fawn, café au lait, mushroom, a delicate, greenish blue, illac and mauve suede with the tops made of alternate rows of kid and valenciennes. Such gloves are marked $14.83. The wonder is they don't make it $15.

Such gloves are marked $14.63. The wonder is they don't make it $15.

The newest mousquetaires have gussets between the fingers, but there is no gusset between the foredinger and the thumb. For street wear light, dressed kids have lapped seams and rows of stitching on the back which are less pronounced than last winter's specimens. For carriage wear and calling the ugly pearl gray is again in vogue, and women who feel very sure of themselves and their social position wear gloves attiched with crimson or black, or white on green, mauve on gray, anything to get a sharp contrast of tones. In spite of the charms of these French novelties, it is not likely that they will displace undressed tancolored kid in its scores of shades for either the street or evening toilet of the conservative woman. The new silk gloves come in every delicate shade that is possible for dress fabrics, and promise to redeem their past reputation by wearing extremely well. A lady was wearing some this morning in like stitched with black. They have reinforced finger tips, against the raids of the long-pointed, fashionable finger nails.

in line stitched with black. They have reinforced finger tips, against the raids of the long-pointed, fashionable finger nails.

The two colors most used in stockings are black and silver; the one for useful wear, the other for dress occasions, matching the gray silk and kid shoes which have such a summer vogue. Manufacturers seem to think—perhaps with some show of reason—that there's no limit to a woman's folly, provided she has money, and they show her something new. At any rate, they are setting insertions of Valenciennes and Malines lace in stockings, and there's no doubt that girls who dress, not wisely but too well, will be captivated by such costly tawdriness. It's amusing to note the struggles of the Jenness Miller proselytes with their hose. They wear, according to orders, spiral wire garters below the knees, and then, the modera stocking having a considerable length of leg, they face the necessity of knotting, in addition, ribbons above the knees. There seems to be no solution of the garter question, unless in desperation one adopts, as many women have, stockings that join at the top, button about the waist and go commonly by another name.

The new fans are as pretty as the girls for whom they are made. Sometimes they have carved ivory sticks and gauze covers, with lightly gathered gauze frills edging the staves. Sometimes the gauze is of a faint blue color and over this are set crinkled rose petals, forming one great pink or paleyellow rose. For the Empire dress' and over this are set crinkled rose petals, forming one great pink or pale-yellow rose. For the Empire dress there are roccco fans, or voung girls use those composed of narrow ribbons intersecting the fretted staves. It is considered good usage to use gauze and lace fans only in the ballroom; for the theater painted silk is preferable. The feather fan increases in stature. Little Mattie Sheridan's is almost tall enough to act as her chaperone.

Lace frills and bodice fixings.

Standing frills of lace are substituted for the high collar, or if one is com-pletely emancipated there are fluger-wide ruffles of mousseline de soie to be turned back from the open throat; aristocratic lettering.

It takes no end of grace and courage to manage the huge square of white linen affected by the bachelor girl when the class of the backlone for the part of the same for the part of the same for the same or there are deep collarettes of sikk muslin to be plaited full about the neck and tied with a ribbon under the chin. For gingham and print dresses turned over collars are among the novelties, in white batiste or in rose, ecru or pale blue lawn. These are sometimes mounted on chemisettes, though not always. Narrow collarettes are rather comical. They show double ruchings of fringed silk tied in front with ribbons. Big throat bows of black gauze are among the prettiest of the neck tixings. Vandyke points of white lace are attractive, set over white crépe plaited in ruffles. Lace collars and cuffs come in pretty sets and find many admirers. Linen collars have the corners turned down slightly, and the cuffs are rounded off on their upper edges. Striped cuffs share their empire with plain white ones. The daintiest dress accessories observable are the Venetian scarfs of soft crepe de Chine, to be crossed on the breast and passed under the arms. Women who go shopping these hot June days are buying "shoulder-shawls." which are squares of cream-colored or white India silk, embroidered all over with flower sprays and edged with a deep fringe. These are folded as a Quakeress folds her kerchief and worn at twilight on the cottage veranda or hotel plazza when the wind begins to turn chill. The simplest way to finish the neck of a gown, if one does not care to spend much money, is to buy some of the soft, inexpensive Oriental lace, gather it full and let it fall over in a frill. it full and let it fall over in a frill.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The Fourth of July prizes make a handsome showing. See that you or your horse wins one of them. THE man who does the least for a town expects the town to do the most for him. This applies to Pasadena. PURCHASE your firecrackers early, but be careful that the eyes of the Marshal are not on you when you set

"BE punctual," says a townsman who is inclined that way. "Life is made up of little things, and our atten-tion to them is an index to our charac-

THE Fourth will go off with a whoop and a hurrah. Patriotic exercises at the Tabernacle in the morning, races at the park in the afternoon, and firecrackers and torpedoes all day.

IT is hoped our business men will take an active part in Friday's parade. Floats can be made ornamental as well as drawing advertising cards. Let care be taken in their construction, and the more of them the better.

PASADENA'S official census figures will likely fall below the five thousand mark. While this result will be a disappointment to many, who rated number of inhabitants considerably higher, the enumerators claim that the town has been thoroughly canvassed, and that few, if any, of the present residents have been left out of the count. This is doubtless so. It should be remembered, however, the figures only refer to the area bounded by the city limits. This leaves out a good part of North Pasadena, the Olivewood section, the thickly popu-lated district of Lake avenue, South lated district of Lake avenue, South Pasadena and Linda Vista, all properly part and portion of Pasadena, excepting South Pasadena, which has a municipal government of its own. When the city limits embrace this wider territory, the census figures will be more gratifying. But there is nothing to be ashamed of in the figures

BREAKFAST-TABLE TALK.

Messrs. Vore & Hoag claim they have the smartest dog in town, and those who have seen the animal's performances don't deny that this is so. One of the dog's favorite tricks is to climb a wall, or the side of a house, that is, if the wall lan't too high. Fasten an apple or some other small object on a nail, seven or eight feet above the floor, and the dog will literally run up the perpendicular surface and grab it with his teeth. Then he carries his prize to his master and says, as plainly as a dog can say, "Put it higher!"

The local betting fraternity are on the qui vive for Friday's races. The only trouble is no one knows much about the comparative merits of the horses entered, and the business of betting will resolve itself into a ques-tion of simple speculation.

Sometimes when fog hangs over the central part of town, the sun is shining brightly on the banks of the airoyo. Those who reside on these eminences and spend the morning at home are frequently surprised to learn later in the day that there has been any fog in this section.

"Seeing is believing," says an unfortunate resident of Villa street, whose face is twice its normal size, "and when a man sees a swarm of bees about his head it's time for him to be leaving. The only trouble is, I didn't leave in time."

WOMAN AND HOME.

Sowing the Wind and Reaping the Whirlwind.

I ran across a mother the other day who is "sowing the wind and who will reap the whirlwind" when her children are grown. Not that her children are naturally any worse than other children. They are smiling, gay-hearted little babies, bright and full of life, but they are without dis-cipline, and all the native tyranny that lies curbed and undeveloped in well-trained children is being brought into trained children is being brought into active exercise with them. Though the oldest is not yet 6 years of age, he has learned that he can have his own way, and he has his mother under the most abject control.

"Georgie, you must not go cat upon the street to play this afternoon," says mamma, "but be a good little boy and play right there in the yard."

Giving him some marbles for his amusement, the mother with this injunction goes into the house, and Georgie turns to his little brother, saying:

thin; heat in a porcelain-lined sauce-pan two teaspoonfuls of butter and one teaspoonful of flour; when they are stirred smoothly add a cup two-thirds full of vinegar, a level teaspoonful each of salt and mustard, a teaspoon-ful of sugar and a dust of cayenne; stir these ingredients until they boil; then remove them from the fire, stir in the yolk of a raw egg, pour the dress-ing over the cabbage and serve it at once.

THE INDIAN PROBLEM.

Education the Factor by Which It Will Be Solved.

Horatio N. Bush, an old Indian Agent, who is now residing at Colton, in talking over the late Apache out-break in Arizona, made the following statement the other day, which will be of interest to many:

"In 1836 the hostile Apaches under Geronimo were captured by the United States troops after a chase of many months. Their children, who were with them, were perhaps as unfortunate a group as we have any record of. Whatever education they had was acquired from their savage, degraded parents and associates while upon the warpath. When the party reached Florida as prisoners the children were sent to the Indian training-school at Carlisle, Pa., under the successful management of Capt. R. H. Pratt. They were photographed as they arrived. Just four months later they were photographed again.

"That our citizens may see what civilization can do for the most degraded savages, I have placed in several prominent show windows in this city copies of each picture, and I invite all citizens to stop and examine them. My object in doing this is to call attontion to the "In 1886 the hostile Apaches under efforts now being made by the United States Government to civilize and educate the Indian, having learned by experience that it is cheaper to do this than to kill him with powder and ball. I will not here discuss this as a moral or political question.

"The Indian is among us, a trouble-some factor that must soon be absorbed into our body politic. Already many of them are voters, and all will be soon. Does it not become us to compel them, as well as our white population, to secure a common school education? We give to every foreigner who will become a citizen 160 acres of land and the benefit of our common school. Surely, we ought to do as much for the Indian. The Government training-schools of today endeavor to give the Indian an English education, with a practical knowledge of the domestic arts and such use of tools as will enable him when he leaves school to find ready employment as a skilled laborer.

"He must be able to do something will enable him when he leaves school to find ready employment as a skilled laborer.

"He must be able to do something useful to enable him to find employment in the crowded labor market. He must have such an education as will enable him to be self-supporting, or he will immediately join the great army of white tramps and criminal idlers, who have had an education but have gone back to their blankets and beging for a living. In this State we all feel the need of a better class of laborers in 'house and field.' Let us utilize what we have. There are from five to ten thousand Indians in this State for whom the Government has done almost nothing. About 20 per cent. of this number are of school age.

California an Indian training-school during the present year. This effort will tend to improve this class of our people, and the missionary should second the school teacher. I ask your thoughtful attention to this subject.

"This work needs the sympathy and coöperation of all good citizens. Again, I arge you to call and examine the pictures. See what four months of kindness can do for a savage, and do not again repeat that saying that all good Indians are dead ones."

Up to this time the press of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by and by" recover, and trusts that he will "by and by" recover, but this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumption.

Every case of catarrh is carable, when
